to the Commission

Rule 130

Joachim Starbatty (ECR)

Subject: Currency risks and investment protection in the context of TTIP and CETA

Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker has repeatedly stressed that the euro crisis is not yet over. Equity investors must interpret this as meaning that the possibility that some countries could leave the eurozone cannot be ruled out.

Investors from third countries could incur losses as a result of a country's leaving the currency union. Can the Commission rule out the possibility that compensation could be claimed for such losses through the investment protection that is to be provided in TTIP and CETA?
