Subject: Reception of refugees: sorting the genuine from the false

Following the brutal attacks carried out in Paris on 13 November 2015, police investigations quickly showed that at least three of the terrorists involved had entered the EU through Greece, mixed in with the flood of refugees.

Will the Commission propose that emergency measures should be introduced to allow Member States to overhaul procedures for the reception and sorting of refugees arriving from the Middle East and from other regions where religious conflicts may result in dangerous radical Islamists attempting to enter Europe as 'political refugees'?
