

Question for written answer E-015908/2015
to the Commission

Rule 130

Krišjānis Kariņš (PPE)

Subject: EU investigation agency

After recent tragic events in Paris, there have been calls for the creation of a 'European FBI', i.e. an EU investigation agency aimed at fighting terrorism.

If such an organisation were created:

Would this mean that the mandate for EUROPOL would be broadened or would another organisation be created instead?

What powers should be given to fight terrorism effectively?

How would this organisation cooperate with national security agencies in Member States?