Subject: Promoting youth entrepreneurship

Unemployment, in particular among young people, is one of the principal challenges currently facing the EU. The discussions held to date on young people have failed to focus sufficiently on the opportunities they can offer society. Business creation is a promising alternative for young people looking to enter the labour market and can generate growth in the Member States. In order to help young people to take the initiative, the EU needs to pursue a sustainable policy in this area that will get rid of barriers to setting up a business.

1. What specific action will the Commission take to promote youth entrepreneurship in the EU?
2. What support will it provide for young Europeans attempting to set up and fund a business?
