to the Commission
Rule 130
Judith Sargentini (Verts/ALE)

Subject: Actions carried out by Dutch police seconded to Frontex

According to media reports, Dutch police seconded to Frontex used Dutch-registered vehicles in Hungary to drive four Kosovars (irregular migrants) to the court in Szeged in handcuffs and unlaced shoes¹.

1. Could the Commission elaborate on whether this is in line with the mandate of Frontex under which the Dutch police have been seconded, and if that is not applicable, with any other EU law?
2. Is the Commission aware of any other such practices?
3. If this is contrary to EU law, what will the Commission do to prevent such practices from happening in the future?
