Rule 130
Geoffrey Van Orden (ECR)

Subject: Preventing the free movement of criminals

While Chapter VI of the Free Movement Directive enables Member States to restrict the freedom of movement of EU citizens who may pose a serious threat to the fundamental interests of society and to impose entry and re-entry bans on certain individuals, what additional measures would the Council propose to enable Member States to identify citizens of other Member States with criminal convictions or who are criminal suspects, in order to prevent their entry?
