Subject: Sufficiency of MFF resources for the forthcoming years

Given the unexpected emergency situation currently affecting our borders due to the migration crisis and the fact that, since January 2015, at least 710 000 refugees have entered Europe:

Has the Commission considered whether the ceilings for headings 3 and 4 should be increased in the next mid-term review of the Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF)? Does the Commission feel that the resources currently available under the MFF (including the flexibility instruments) will be sufficient to address this problem over the next few years during which it is applicable?
